Paris, 03 September 2026

LBP AM European Private Markets continues its expansion with the appointments of Phuong Anh Nguyen as Investment Manager and Adrien de La Grange as Senior Investor Relations

To support its growth ambitions in France and internationally, LBP AM European Private Markets (EPM), a platform dedicated to private assets, is strengthening its expertise and continuing its expansion with the arrival of Phuong Anh Nguyen as Investment Manager in the Infrastructure Debt team, and Adrien de La Grange as Senior Investor Relations.

With nearly 15 years' experience in European private markets, EPM currently boasts a team of 50 professionals.

Phuong Anh Nguyen, Investment manager[1]

Phuong Anh Nguyen joins EPM's Infrastructure Debt unit, led by Bérénice Arbona. Her experience in complex structuring and financing will help support the origination and execution capabilities of the unit, which has invested €3.7 billion and financed more than 80 projects since 2012.

An infrastructure debt investment manager at BNP Paribas Asset Management since 2022, Phuong Anh Nguyen took part in structuring major financing transactions in the energy, transport, telecommunications and public services sectors. She previously worked at TotalEnergies Renewables and PwC, among others. Phuong Anh Nguyen is a graduate of EDHEC Business School.

"We are delighted to welcome Phuong Anh to the team. Her experience, particularly in the high-yield segment, rounds out our expertise. Her appointment reflects our ongoing efforts to develop our teams to support our growth and keep pace with developments in the infrastructure debt market. She strengthens our ability to identify and structure investment opportunities for our clients while maintaining the rigour and discipline that characterise our approach," said Bérénice Arbona, Head of Infrastructure Debt at LBP AM.

Adrien de La Grange, Senior Investor Relations [2]

Adrien de La Grange's appointment is part of EPM's strategy to increase its presence among institutional investors in France and Europe. Drawing on his solid European network,Adrien de La Grange will contribute to the group's growth ambitions in these strategic markets. He reports to Mathilde Sauvé, Head of Development & Products at LBP AM.
